

Baby, I Love You

Words & Chant:
Traditional Game

"Baby, I love you. Won't you give me a smile?"

"I love you, baby, but I just can't smile."

Everyone sits in a circle around "It", who is sitting in the center of the circle. Another person is chosen to go into the circle and deliver the first line ("Baby, I love you..."). "It" must deliver the second line ("I love you, baby...") without cracking a smile. The first person can do anything s/he can to get "It" to crack up EXCEPT touch them in any way. No tickling, etc.

If "It" successfully delivers the line without cracking up, that person picks a new person to deliver the first line, returns to the circle and the person who failed to get them to laugh becomes "It". If "It" loses it, the line-deliverer gets to pick a new person to come in and try to get "It" to laugh.

A very fun game.
